PREFACE

THE response to the annual publication of the Year Book has been very gratifying. The librarians making no return are negligible, although not all of them have given the whole of the information desired in the interests of the users of the Year Book. The Year Book is a tool in constant use by librarians, but, in addition, it is a work of public reference. It is invaluable as a record of the literary activities and facilities of towns. For this reason we would remind county librarians that information regarding Branch Libraries in their County or Rural Areas is of importance as an advertisement of the local amenities.

Not only have the replies been more numerous than ever before for any previous edition, but they have been sent more promptly. At the same time we hope those who delayed this time will help us as much as they can next time by sending their returns earlier. If all replies were received promptly the Year Book could be produced in two months. We realize the difficulties librarians have in this respect on account of the many year-ending dates. These vary from January to December, and include May 15th, January 30th, September 30th, and other dates. It is not possible to find a year-ending that is general.

This present edition of the Year Book has been greatly increased in size without any increase in price; and in addition much new information about colonial and foreign libraries and Library Associations has been included. We would take this opportunity of thanking our foreign correspondents for their kind assistance in increasing the usefulness of these sections. We would include in our gratitude the many librarians who have made the general success of the Year Book possible.

The information has been corrected as far as possible to the middle of June.

The most notable feature during the year has been the unprecedented increase in the general use of libraries of all kinds by the reading public and by students. The wave of economy that threatened at one time to engulf local activities appears to have spent itself, and, as a whole, the increased demands on public libraries in particular have been met by increased expenditure on a reasonable basis.

The number of new buildings, extensions and other projected developments presents a hopeful future for the profession and will go a long way to wipe out the earlier years of repression and administrative starvation.

Office: Chaucer House, Malet Place, London, W.C.1. Telephone: Museum 0749. Telegrams: "Asliburo, Westcent, London." Bankers: Midland Bank (Tottenham Court Road). Auditors: West and Drake (Chartered Accountants). The objects of the Association are: To examine, foster, and co-ordinate the activities of special libraries, information bureaux, and similar services; to act as a clearing-house for these services; to develop the usefulness and efficiency of special libraries and information bureaux under whatever titles they may function; and generally to promote, whether by conferences, meetings or other means, the wider dissemination and the systematic use of published information.

National Association of Local Government Officers, Westminster, S.W.1. President: F. Marsden, City Engineer and Surveyor, Bradford. General Secretary: L. Hill. Official Organ: "The Local Government Service." Telephone: Victoria 8592 3/4/5. Telegrams: "Natassoc, Parl, London." Principal Object: The principal object of the Association is to organise the whole of the Professional, Administrative, Technical and Clerical employees in all departments of the Local Government Service; to improve the conditions and protect the interests of the Association's members; to regulate the relations between such members and between them and their employers; to initiate and assist in movements for the betterment of service conditions; and to do all such things as may from time to time be considered advisable to safeguard, maintain, and improve the status and promote the advancement of Local Government Officers and the Local Government Service. The N.A.L.G.O. has a membership approximately 68,000, comprising the Professional, Administrative, Technical and Clerical Officers of Local Authorities. The activities of the Association are manifold and include a Benevolent and Orphan Fund with an income of £16,000 p.a., an Approved Society under the Health Insurance Acts, and an Insurance Section through which Sickness, Life, Fire, Householder's Comprehensive, Fidelity and Motor Insurances are transacted. A Building Society offering advantageous terms for investment and house purchase is available to members and their wives. It has a Correspondence Institute with a Panel of Tutors second to none in the Kingdom, and with a Teaching Scheme covering all departments of Local Government. The strength of all Professional and Technical Associations of persons engaged wholly or partly in the Local Government Service lies in their enthusiastic co-operation with the National Association of Local Government Officers, and this is best accomplished by joining a Local Branch.

University of London School of Librarianship, University College, Gower Street, W.C.1. Director: Ernest A. Baker, M.A., D.Lit. Assistant Director: J.A. Wilks, M.A., Librarian of University College, assisted by a staff of fourteen lecturers.

Course of Studies as follows: Bibliography, Classification, Palæography and Archives, Public library law, Literary history and book selection, Latin, French (or another modern foreign language), Cataloguing and indexing, Library organisation, Library routine, Book-binding, History of Science, Special Library Services, Library Economy. The three last named form part of the course in Special Librarianship. Period of study: Two years (postgraduate, one year). Special periods for part-time students. Diploma granted after examination and one year's practical experience. Certificates in individual subjects. The school prepares also for the examinations of the Library Association.

National Book Council Library, 3 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, London, W.C.2. Early in January, 1929, the Committee accepted on behalf of members and associate members the nucleus of what may be described as a Books About Books library, presented by the Secretary, Mr. Maurice Marston. The need for a permanent reference library, which could be consulted by all interested in books, has been recognized by the Committee for some time past, and Mr. Marston's comprehensive and valuable collection will fill the want admirably. The collection embraces such subjects as "The History of Books," "The History of Authorship," "The Book Selling and Book Publishing," "Book Collecting," "Bibliography" and "The History and Economics of the Book Trade."

The Carnegie United Kingdom Trust was applied to for a grant towards the purchase of certain lacunae in order that the collection may be brought up to date. This request was granted on the condition that the library would be made available to the general public—a condition to which the Committee readily agreed. The public can now make use of the library through the "outlier" system organized by The National Central Library. At present it is housed at the N.B.C. offices.

The Library is available direct to members and associate members of the Council. Any member who desires to consult a book on the fascinating history of the book trade, on printing, on the technical points of authorship, or any other subject concerned with the production and sale of books, is invited to visit and make use of the library. Volumes can be sent direct to members if postage is paid in advance. In January, 1933, a catalogue was issued and distributed free of charge to all N.B.C. subscribers; extra copies are available to members at 1/-; non-members, 2/- each.

Collections of documents include those of the Wynns of Gwydir (1515-1690); the Carreglwyd Papers (1229-1864); the Llewenni, the Clark (of Talygarn) and the Wigfair Papers. The Library has been approved by the Master of the Rolls as a depository for manorial and other records. The Library is one of six entitled to the privileges of the Copyright Act of 1911. Principal collections include the library of Sir John Williams, Bart., containing 25,000 printed books, mainly Welsh or of Welsh interest; the Welsh library collected by the University College of Wales towards a National Library; and the library of Mr. E. Humphrey Owen of Ty Coch, Caernarvon. Principal J. H. Davies bequeathed, in addition to his valuable Welsh MSS. (Cwrtmawr), such books from his collection as the library did not already possess. Among the special collections are those of the late Mrs. Frida Mond relating to English and Teutonic folk-lore; the Reverend Professor T. Witton Davies, chiefly devoted to books on the Bible, Semitics, magic and demonology, and ethnic religions; the library of the late Dr. E. Sidney Hartland, books on anthropology. The library of the late Francis Wm. Bourdillon, purchased in 1922, contains over a thousand volumes of rare texts of early romances, including 44 MSS. of the XIV and XV centuries; a collection of pamphlets brought together by the Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, the pamphlets number 2,800 and cover almost every controversial subject over a period of 60 years of the XIX century. The library specializes in books on Welsh hymns, Welsh ballads, the publications of modern presses, such as the Kelmescott (of which it possesses a complete set), Gregynog, Doves, Ashendene, Daniel, etc.; Civil War Tracts relating to Wales and the border counties, and cartography, etc. Publications include Catalogues of MSS.: Sir J. Williams' collection, Oriental MSS.; Calendar of Wynn (of Gwydir) Papers, 1515-1690; Calendar of Deeds and Documents (3 vols.); Bibliotheca Celtica, 1909-1926 (8 vols.); Catalogue of Civil War Tracts; Bibliography of Robert Owen (2nd ed.); Handlist of Books on Agriculture, etc. Library of Congress classification. CLARE COLLEGE LIBRARY. Tel.: 196. Cat.: Typed card. Open to public by permission. Clare College Library was founded, presumably, when the College was founded—in 1326, as "University Hall." At any rate, we know, on the evidence of the College Register, that a Library was being built between 1420 and 1430. This Library probably perished in 1521, when a fire destroyed the Master's Chamber and College Treasury. What was probably the second regular College Library was next established in a ten-windowed attic range which was in 1627, a fine set, still in use, of Jacobean bookcases, or classes, constituted the chief item in a refitting of this Tudor Library. These cases seem, structurally, to have been accommodated for projecting desks, in a manner deriving from the old chained book system (cf. J. W. Clark, The Care of Books). The Tudor Library was pulled down, with the old chapel, in the middle of the 18th century, when the present Library, adjoining the Combination Room, was fitted up with wall cases for the reception of many of the books, the rest being accommodated in the classes of 1627. The Library is accessible to the public at any time during term time, upon application to the Librarian. In the case of valuable books, however, arrangements are generally made that these should be consulted, by extraneous students, in Room ⑥ of the University Library. There is no regular income, beyond the Librarian's customary salary of £20 per annum; but normally between £20 and £50 is expended annually on purchase and binding of books, repairs, etc. Specially interesting 'collections' are the Ruggle coll. (1620) of 284 16th and early 17th century volumes, mostly continental Drama, French, Spanish, and Italian, the Prideaux (18th century) bequest of some 300 Oriental works, and the Cecil Sharp bequest, some 50 vols. of MSS. connected with the late Cecil Sharp's researches into Folk Song and Folk Dance. The College possesses 35 incunabula, of which a hand-list has been printed, over 400 books printed in England before 1640, and 31 manuscripts, as enumerated and described in Dr. M. R. James' Western MSS. in the Library of Clare College. A chapter (Chap. VII) of some fifty pages in length is devoted to the Clare College Library and its contents, etc., in Clare Hall and College, 1326-1926, 2 vols., privately printed for the College by the Cambridge University Press and published 1928 (Vol I) and 1930 (Vol II). Chap. VII is in Vol. II. Lib.: Mansfield D. Forbes, M.A.

ROYAL BOTANIC GARDENS LIBRARY. 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturdays 9 a.m. to 4.30 p.m. Director: Sir Arthur William Hill, K.C.M.G., M.A., Sc.D., F.R.S., F.L.S. Keeper of Herbarium and Library: Arthur Disbrowe Cotton, F.L.S. The Library of the Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew, Surrey (40,000 vols.) is specially intended to assist in the routine work of the establishment and in investigating questions of botanical interest. It was founded in 1852 by the gift by Miss Bromfield of the botanical books of her deceased brother, Dr. W. A. Bromfield, amongst which were many fine copies of the works of the older authors. The large and valuable collection of botanical books of Mr. George Bentham was presented by him, with his herbarium, in 1854, and in 1867 a large selection from the botanical library of Sir William J. Hooker, together with his herbarium, was purchased by the Government. These formed the nucleus of the present library. Additions have been received from many sources by gift, purchase or exchange. While in the formation of the library all branches of botany have been considered, and to some extent horticulture, forestry and agriculture as well, it has been specially its aim to acquire literature relating to systematic and economic botany. There is a considerable collection of herbals including several incunabula, the more important works on fossil plants, a large number of good general and special text-books, and a comprehensive series of floras. There is also a selection of about 1,400 volumes of works on travel, many of which contain botanical information. The periodicals number about 2,000 in 16,000 volumes. Of these nearly 1,000 are current and include all the more important of the botanical journals, as well as several that are horticultural, agricultural, or geographical. The Library contains a small collection of maps and charts, about 500 portraits of botanists in addition to those exhibited in the Museums, and upwards of 150,000 original paintings, drawings, prints, photographs or other illustrations of plants, which are arranged in portfolios. The preparation of supplements to the Index Kewensis, which is part of the official work of the establishment, and the compilation of a supplement to the new edition of Pritzel's Iconum Botanicarum Index by a staff employed by the Royal Horticultural Society, are being carried on in the Library at Kew. A printed author catalogue of the Library was published in 1899, and a supplement including additions to the end of 1915 was published in 1919. There is no subject catalogue. Publications belonging to the Library are not lent to members of the public. Permission to use the Library is granted to all engaged in serious research and may be obtained on application to the Director.

Issues (other than reference from the R.R. shelves), 1,610,349; readers, 226,270. Readers may apply to the Superintendent of the Reading Room by letter, to be delivered some hours in advance, for books (not exceeding five in number) to be held ready for their use; such application, when possible, to be accompanied by ticket duly filled up. Readers are requested to give up their books shortly before 6 p.m., in order to allow of due examination of the books, and also to facilitate the arrangements for keeping books required for use on the following day. Persons desiring to be admitted to the reading rooms must apply in writing to the Director, specifying their profession or business, their place of abode, and the particular purpose for which they seek admission. Every such application must be made two days at least before admission is required, and must be accompanied by a written recommendation from a person of recognised position, with full signature and address, stated to be given on personal knowledge of the applicant, and certifying that he or she will make proper use of the reading room. The Trustees cannot accept the recommendations of hotel keepers, or of boarding-house or lodging-house keepers, in favour of their lodgers. If such application or recommendation be unsatisfactory, the Director will either refuse admission or submit the case to the Trustees for their decision. The tickets of admission (a) are not transferable; and (b) must be produced if required.

 THE SCIENCE LIBRARY, South Kensington, London, S.W.7. Est. 1883. This National Library is especially devoted to pure and applied Science. It is open free from 10 a.m. to 5.50 p.m. on weekdays. Admission is by ticket, to be obtained by application addressed to "The Director, The Science Museum, South Kensington, S.W.7," or by personal application to the Keeper of the Library. The aim of the Library is to make as complete as possible a collection of scientific and technical literature, both English and foreign, to render its subject matter available to research workers by maintaining an index to the literature and by lending the publications. The Library contains probably the finest existing collection of scientific and technical periodicals, some 11,000 in all, of which 8,000 are current. There are nearly a quarter of a million volumes in the library. The total output of scientific and technical literature is surveyed, and new volumes are added to the library at the rate of 9,000 a year. The author and subject catalogues are maintained on cards and kept up to date. The Subject Catalogue is very minutely classified by the Universal Decimal Classification. The mimeographed weekly "Lists of Accessions to the Science Library" are classified according to the same system and contain some ten thousand entries a year. The Information Service is based on a Card Subject-Index to the articles in scientific and technical books and periodicals, which comprises all published bibliographical notices that are classified according to the Universal Decimal Classification, together with others prepared in the Library. This Index contains nearly two million entries, and is a rapid means of ascertaining references to information on a particular subject. The card index is supplemented by an exceptionally extensive collection of bibliographies on all branches of pure and applied science. This whole collection, which comprises altogether forty million references and constitutes the finest existing repertory of scientific and technical information, is administered by a scientifically trained staff, for the assistance of readers and the supply of bibliographies of special subjects on request. Subsequently these bibliographies are issued in mimeographed form in the "Science Library Bibliographical Series." The books in the Library are available for consultation by readers, or are lent to research workers and students through approved institutions or industrial undertakings at which scientific investigations are carried out. Photostat copies of articles, illustrations, etc., are supplied on prepayment. Librarian: S. C. Bradford, D.Sc., F.L.A., Deputy Librarian: E. Lancaster-Jones, B.A. See also under "Science Museum."

IMPERIAL WAR MUSEUM, Imperial Institute Rd., South Kensington. The

Imperial War Museum was founded by the War Cabinet in 1917 to record the effort of the Empire during the War, and was established by Act of Parliament in 1920 in order to commemorate the effort and sacrifices made by the men and women of the Empire, and at the same time to provide a record for historical students of this period of national history. War Material: In the Main Galleries are exhibited Naval and Military weapons, equipment, etc., of both historical and technical interest, many specimens from their associations being at the same time Records of notable Actions and Memorials of Brave Men, such as the guns of "L" Battery, "Vindictive," and the gun served by Jack Cornwell, V.C. There are also numerous models illustrating camouflage, trench warfare, munition production, Red Cross and Women's War Work, and a very complete collection of Ship Models. Art: The collection of paintings, drawings, lithographs, etc., is unique among all the galleries of the world, for it contains examples of every school of painting in this country during the war period, and at the same time every phase of the War is illustrated by artists who, through facilities granted by the Government, had actually seen the subjects they depicted. The collection includes important paintings and drawings presented to the Nation by Sir John Lavery, R.A., the late Sir William Orpen, R.A., Mr. Muirhead Bone and the late Mr. John Sargent, R.A., and a large number of portraits of notable Officers of the Services. Photographs: British Official Records of localities, incidents and individuals in all theatres of operations, numbering approximately 100,000 negatives, as well as numerous photographs from American, German and private sources, copies of which can be purchased. Library: This section contains books in all languages, autograph letters and diaries, posters, maps, stamps, paper money, etc., and is open to the public for study or reference. The Museum is controlled by a Board of Trustees, of which H.R.H. The Prince of Wales is President. The Executive Staff consists of: Curator and Secretary: Charles Foulkes, O.B.E., B.Litt., F.S.A. Assistants: L. R. Bradley, M.B.E., H. Foster (Librarian), Ernest Blaikley. Junior Assistants: L. P. Y. Smith, A. J. Charge. The Museum is open free from 10 to 6 on weekdays and Bank Holidays; 2.30 to 6 on Sundays. Closed on Christmas Day and Good Friday.

SCIENCE MUSEUM, South Kensington, London, S.W.7. The Science Museum contains extensive collections illustrating science and the application of science to industry, each group being arranged so as to emphasize the development which has taken place in attaining the standard of modern practice. Among Stationary Engines are shown the early engines designed by James Watt; in the Railway Section are four of the oldest locomotives, including George Stephenson's "Rocket." The Aeronautical Section is of special interest as it contains several of the earliest gliders and aeroplanes; a series of nearly a hundred aeroplane models mark the rapid development from 1903 to the present day. Electrical Engineering, with the most recent developments in radio telegraphy and telephony, are shown, and an automatic telephone exchange is demonstrated daily. The history of various tools from the earliest times is illustrated by numerous examples and the modern types of machine tools are shown. Ship and boat construction is represented by a large and valuable series of models of all periods, and by a collection of marine engine models, nearly all of which are shown in motion. Mining, Metallurgy, Textile Machinery, Mechanical Road Transport are also represented by models and actual examples. In the galleries devoted to science, instruments used in astronomy, geodesy, geophysics, and meteorology are shown, while a very interesting series illustrates the development of photography and of modern cinematography. The measurement of time is shown by a series beginning with the shadow clocks of Ancient Egypt, including a 14th century clock from Wells Cathedral and ending with the most modern type of chronometer. The Museum is a State Institution, open free daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Sundays from 2.30 to 6 p.m. Lectures, free to the public, are delivered by the Official Guide-Lecturers in the Lecture Theatre, and also in the form of Tours of various Galleries, on weekdays at 12 noon and 3 p.m. and on Saturdays (and Bank Holidays) at 2.15 p.m. and 4.15 p.m. These lectures are designed to facilitate the study of the Museum Collections by supplying an historical survey of the numerous branches of Science and its application to Industry, represented by the Collections. Monthly lists of these lectures are available at the bookstalls, together with leaflets and application forms relating to the service of Special Lectures provided by appointment for Schools and parties from Societies and Institutions. See also under Science Museum Library.

PRITTEWELL PRIORY. The Priory was established circa A.D. 1100 and was suppressed by Henry VIII in 1536. For nearly four centuries it was a private residence. In 1917 the Priory and Park were purchased by the late Mr. R. A. Jones, M.B.E., and presented to the town. The Priory buildings were restored by the Corporation (1917-1922), at a cost of £7,500. In 1922 Prittlewell Priory was opened as the public Museum, and since that time has been maintained by the Corporation. Collections: (a) Priory relics; (b) local antiquities; and (c) local natural history specimens. (a) includes original Letters Patent of Henry VIII (1536); and Deed of transfer (Edward VI, 1551), both illuminated MSS. and each carrying a portrait of the king. Also seals of priors, etc. (b) A good collection of prehistoric antiquities, based on the Benton collection. (c) Contains the Parsons and Hoy collections of birds. The Priory buildings are themselves an important exhibit. Staff: 2 male assist., 2 non-res. attendants. Income: Rates, and a voluntary Exhibits Purchase Fund. To the latter all profits arising from the sale of publications (handbooks, post-card views) are credited, as well as sums directly contributed. Varies: average £1,200 per annum. Curator: W. Pollitt, F.S.A., F.L.A.

STONYHURST. COLLEGE MUSEUM AND LIBRARY. The Museum has certainly been in existence in one form or another since the migration from Liège to Stonyhurst in 1794, but a museum of some kind must have existed at the establishments abroad from which the College is descended, viz., St. Omer, Bruges, and Liège successively, collections are chiefly housed in four rooms of the original Stonyhurst mansion erected in 1592. Museum and Art Collection comprise : (a) Donations from past students, and others ; (b) Collections formed by members of the staff ; (c) Purchases. Some 450 paintings, mainly of Italian schools, including a collection of Stuart portraits. Collection of Prints, including some 140 originals by Albrecht Durer. Mediaeval and renaissance ivories. Collection of medal (renaissance medals and a fairly complete series of papal medals). Representative collections of classical and modern coins, British coins and tokens ; Northumbrian stycas ; a collection of Anglo-Gallic mediæval coins. The Waterton collection of birds, etc., from S. America, collected and preserved by Charles Waterton. The Mivart collection of reptiles ; formed by Professor St. George Mivart. Geological collection ; some 3,000 specimens. Mineralogical collection ; some 1,500 specimens. The Ward Herbarium, domestic and exotic, comprising about 30,000 mounted specimens. Collections of coleoptera and lepidoptera. Ethnological collections for South Africa and Guiana formed by donations of Jesuit missionaries. Various other collections, including one of objects illustrating Catholic history during penal times. The Library : This is composed of some 40,000 volumes including upwards of 250 Incunabula, some of which are unique ; a large number of printed liturgical books of the 15th and 16th centuries ; a First Folio of Shakespeare ; The Book of Hours traditionally said to have been used by Mary, Queen of Scots, on the scaffold ; etc. Collection of books printed at the private press of the College at St. Omer (predecessor of Stonyhurst) during penal times. Of the MSS. the most ancient is a Gospel of St. John—an English codex of the 7th century on vellum, in unique contemporary stamped leather binding, known as "St. Cuthbert's Gospel." Arundel collection of Illuminated MSS., mostly missals and Books of Hours. The Archivium has a large number of MSS. bound and catalogued, important for Catholic history ; reported on by the Royal Commission on Historical MSS. Finances : The Museum, Art Collection, and Library are maintained by the college authorities. The general public are admitted on application being made to the college authorities through a responsible person for permission, which is readily granted. Publications : "Flora of the Stonyhurst District" (within a radius of 10 miles." Two editions ; out of print. Numerous articles have appeared in the "Stonyhurst Magazine" dealing with the Museum and Art Collection. Curator : T. P. Mulvany.

RUSSIA.

Association.—MOSCOW SPECIAL LIBRARIES ASSOCIATION. Founded in August, 1931. President: W. I. Nevsky. Secretary: M. W. Manoukhina. Its chief aim is the co-operation between scientific libraries (without trade union activity). Every one of the 7 soviet socialistic republics has a special section of the workers of the science of the trade-union of peoples education workers. Librarians, curators of museums and art galleries having printed works can be members of these sections. The President of the Moscow librarian scientists' section is Mrs. H. K. Derman, Director of the Library of Communist Academy. This section was founded in 1922. The curators of art galleries are all members of the trade-union of people's education workers. In U.S.S.R. there is no special trade union for librarians and curators of museums. Every one of them can be members of one of the 44 trade unions existing in U.S.S.R.; for instance, a librarian of a metallurgical factory shall be member of the metallurgists' trade union and so on.

for your open shelves.

BEST BOOKS

THE third volume in the new series of Best Books, 1931, is now published. The price of this has been again reduced, for the third time, to 12s. 6d., to regular subscribers. Best Books is proving itself a very ready tool for the public. The librarian appreciates it, but the real usefulness of Best Books is as a work of constant and ready reference for the public. It has proved its worth in the lending library side by side with the catalogue and the scheme of classification, at branch libraries, and reference libraries, and in county centres and rural areas. If used in conjunction with the catalogue of the library it augments the stock by giving information on the Dewey system of classification now generally in use, so that students are able to see what they want and judge of the best way of meeting their needs.

The effective life of a volume of Best Books is about ten years. This means that all the volumes are valuable for the student who wishes to obtain information. The two previous volumes are obtainable at the uniform price of 12s. 6d. each to regular subscribers.
